Therion, Leviathan

The Mediterranean
Down where chaos reign
Oh, great Leviathan
Behold the hand of God
Through forgotten rain
You shall his sword defy
New day arrives

Turn to cherish the past Coiling viper of sin Whisper tales of the war of gods And whom our triumph will bring

Dragon of the sea in the wide and dark and deep From west of Eden conjure up the truth May it travel far like a choir of the stars May night of constellations come to fruit Serpent of the void in the ocean of our souls Illuminating powers burn supreme Dwelling in the myth of the watery abyss Your eyelids of the morning shine through me

Soon drifting into time Mirror of your face Reflection of Lotan Stirred is the human mind Glorious the rage That slumbers in Jordan New day arrives

Turn to cherish the past Coiling viper of sin Whisper tales of the war of gods And whom our triumph will bring

Dragon of the sea in the wide and dark and deep From west of Eden conjure up the truth May it travel far like a choir of the stars May night of constellations come to fruit Serpent of the void in the ocean of our souls Illuminating powers burn supreme Dwelling in the myth of the watery abyss Your eyelids of the morning shine through me