Tinashe, MAKJ, Save Room For Us

heart goes numb when the days turn to weeks only blank shadows of the way we used to be all these times zones between us have grown they've grown but these nights don't get easier when I see ya her

just save room for us just save room for us somewhere just save room for us I trust you'll come back for us, somebody you know it's not the end we'll fall in love again cause we were built in dreams of gold just save room for us and it may not be today true love will find a way just save a space for me and I know you've moved on she will never love you the way that I do now I am dancing solo slowly disappearing it still hurts when I see you whit her

just save room for us just save room for us somewhere just save room for us I trust you'll come back for us, somebody just save room for us,

and I know you've moved on she will never love you the way that I do now I am dancing solo slowly disappearing it still hurts when I see you whit her

just save room for us just save room for us somewhere just save room for us I trust you'll come back for us, somebody you know it's not the end we'll fall in love again cause we were built in dreams of gold just save room for us and it may not be today true love will find a way just save a space for me