

Tony Iommi, Face Your Fear

And you're livin' with a secret
That will cut you to the bone
And you have lived in shackles
That you've worn too long
You visualize a tragedy
That you buried long ago
And you'll never know
It seems somehow, you were wrong
It's all within you
You can hear the silence
When you breakthrough
Don't regret
And you must turn and face your fear
Go beneath the skin to the child within
Turn and face your fear
You will never see what is meant to be
And you're floatin' in the darkness
And you want my sympathy
And you only hear the sound
Of a fading distant voice
You medicate yourself with somethin'
So you can explore
You've lost your mind
And soon you're gonna lose your soul
It's all within you
You can hear the silence
When you breakthrough
Don't regret
And you must turn and face your fear
Go beneath the skin to the child within
Turn and face your fear
You will never see what is meant to be
Turn and face your fear
Go beneath the skin to the child within
Turn and face your fear
You will never see what is meant to be
Turn and face your fear
Go beneath the skin to the child within you
Turn and face your fear
You will never see what is meant to be
