Trespassers William, Low Point

I've been scared Not like this You lose things, I lost it Just please reach from somewhere My heart is done It's too scared I've never wished this before now If I said I did I take it all back You have to go all the way To know where it is All the way down You know what you'd stop for When you're running from your worst fear That you need it Now I'm fading This is what I'd like to lay in I've never wished this before now Now I know all the long steps down This time my eyes close like this I know my last thoughts I know my last wish To not be wishing To not have broke this To feel what I'm missing Somehow I broke it I only know breaking And what I want to lie in