

UnSuNg ZeRoS, Miracle

I wake up
and start my everyday routine of working hard at feeling sorry for myself And after lunch I close my eyes and wish to God that I could change but when I wake up Im so very much myself

And Im a long way from believing that Im gonna be ok
such a long way from believing that Ill escape this feeling that I hate

It's a miracle that we are here today with all the thing we put ourselves through over nothing
'cause if you thank God youll know soon it will be ok and youll be holding onto someone holding on to someone

I wake up
and start my everyday routine of wondering what in the world im gonna do 'cause things are falling into place but i cannot appreciate them 'cause if last time fell apart then this might too

And Im a long way from believing
that Im gonna be ok
such a long way from believing
that Ill escape this feeling that I hate

It's a miracle that we are here today
with all the thing we put ourselves through over nothing
'cause if you thank God youll know soon it will be ok
and youll be holding onto someone
holding on to someone

Dimly lit by porchlight I can see your eyes and they are staring into my face (staring into my face) I should trust what i see in them Although the time is right but still Ill take a piece of you away with me

Ive got to stop being scared of using time, It isnt fair 'cause i could die tomorrow or today Control is resting on my side and knowing just would not be right and thats not how i want to live my life

It's a miracle that we are here today
with all the thing we put ourselves through over nothing
'cause if you thank God youll know soon it will be ok
and youll be holding onto someone
holding on to someone

It's a miracle that we are here today
with all the thing we put ourselves through over nothing
'cause if you thank God youll know soon it will be ok
and youll be holding onto someone holding on