

Vanessa Tuna, It Feels Alright

Since the day that you walked out the door I feel relieved and can't ignore that without you life is much more beautiful, it's so good everytime I think about your lies and all the promises you made
I know it was right to say goodbye and put you out

I don't want you I do better alone I don' t need you yes I've made my own home don't try to explain don't justify 'cause I'm done with you and it feels alright

Everyday I'm thankful for the happiness that I can feel again
'cause without you life is so enjoyable it's so good everytime I think about the bluff and all the games you played with me
I know it was right to say goodbye and put you out....
