Vision Divine, Identities

(Music:Smirnoff,Magnani - Melody:Luppi - Lyrics:Magnani)

Tell me now How does it feel to see you're talking with your Soul? Your dig within Tell me now Is this the truth you always have been searching for? Was it worth the price?

Through the veils of human uncertainty Reside the nameless words we're not allowed to know Would this veil break? That's where your mind has gone A trip with no return Through the meaning of what we call... Life

You and me A madman and his Angel to their final trip Drifting in a sullen sea, identities Divided by a tiny line we cannot see But I can feel your presence right here

Tell me where I've gone And where are my dreams and my desires? They just run away And I sit here with these empty words to tell

I can feel your Spirit falling down in me I feel your holy wings Calming down my fears and rage that slowly pass me by

Now I see That in this dark surrounding me I will find some peace And all the truth I needed was right here with me All the reasons why I lost my soul I can't get back Forgive me, if you can... I won't

Thanks for what you've done And for being how you are with me The sun is going down Don't keep me here waiting for the dawn alone I can feel your Spirit falling down in me I feel your holy wings Calming down my fears and rage that slowly pass me by

Here I am Is this the end I always have been searching for? The meaning of what I called life?