Whatever It Takes, Chris Drives Me Home

Wake up every morning everyday To the same sad face No sleep for me No sleep for me

Mourning everyday

And I find it Yeah I find it So hard To move on to better things You find it So fitting

And just maybe
One morning won't be so mournful
That morning I'll call a start
A start of better days

Day one of my new house, New job, New car dream

I woke up dreading morning To realize that it's no dream

Wake up every morning Every day
